“ It's been a year, since God called you home. I still she'd tears when I hear and speak your name or see your pictures. I miss you just as much as I did the day the Angels came for you to give you your own wings. A part of me went with you and a part of you stayed here. And, thank you for the many signs you've given me to let me know you're watching over me. Well, actually you've been doing that for years because you've been taller than me for quite some time. Lol. I love you, Cami. Not only were you my little sis, you were my very first best friend. Until we meet again.
