“ Carl was our boss when we were working in the paint room at Leon Chemical. For most of us this was our first real job. We were all very young and liked to have a little too much fun! Poor Carl had his hands full some days. He would get angry and yell at us sometimes but it took a lot. He loved talking to all of us and made us feel like he really cared about us. Carl had an easy laugh and whenever the song Come on Eileen came on the radio he would come listen with us and talk about his wife. He was a mentor to us and a good man.

“ What a wonderful man. I enjoyed caring for both Carl and Eileen at the Veteran's Home in Grand Island. What a thoughtful couple. They were appreciative of their care and loved to sit and visit. Their pride and joy was their children. They loved talking about them. My deepest sympathy to the family.
