“ In the Arms of Jesus

*My body was weak and trembled in fear knowing no cure for me would be here.
Outside I was calm but quivered inside.
From the whole world my pain I could hide.*

*To catch a quick nap I closed my eyes.
But first I assured you that love never dies.
Each time I awoke my body's still weak.
To you I was brave while rest did I seek.*

*The day had arrived when sleep did I find.
My eyes calmly closed and rest was so kind.
Sleep quickly came to my body and soul.
I awakened in heav'n pain free and whole.*

*A wonderful surprise awaited me here in the arms of Jesus who held me so near.
What a beautiful world in which I awoke,
rainbows and music and angels that spoke.*

*He smiled so gently and sweetly he said,
My child, welcome home. Your pain is now dead.
No words can describe the joy that I feel.
So dry your sad eyes, it's you that must heal.*

*One day you will come to our heavenly home
no more will your tortured soul need to roam.
Some day my love you'll be with me here in the arms of Jesus free of all fear.*

*We'll dance on rainbows and walk in the sun
and watch the snow fall on deer as they run.*

*Together we'll walk and hear angels sing,
watch heaven's sunsets so splendid they ring.*
