“ One of the best bosses I ever had. Whiskey Creek holds a permanent place in my heart because of the many amazing relationships I formed while there. My best friends, my regulars that became family and even my manners are all due to him. He tolerated my rambunctious personality better than anyone I know, and he still saw the best in me. He pushed me to be better because he knew I could do it. The reason I call "customers", guests, and the way I cringe every time I hear the response "no problem", have stuck with me throughout all those years. A genuine, and truly good hearted man. You are missed dearly, Jim. I hope you knew how much we all loved you. The whiskey Creek memories will live on forever. 💔
