“ I love and miss you so much mom. In 20 minutes it's gonna be your birthday. I just wanted to wish you a happy heavenly birthday. I remember teasing you a lot as you were one of the New Years Eve babies. I think of you, love you, and am physically missing your presence everyday, even though we carry you in our hearts 💕 I hope 2026 is better than these last few years. I know you, dad, and Ronny are watching over us. Love and miss all 3 of you so much.

“ Mom. I miss you so much. I remember you saying that no matter where I was at, that you would be there for me. Thank you for that. I hope that you are watching over us from heaven above. It's almost been a year that you passed away, and I came to a difficult decision, that I hope you will support me on. I'm going to sell the house, as I've been struggling for far too long, and I truly need to move on from this. I'm really thankful for it, but it's time to move on from this.

I miss your homemade chicken noodle soup that you used to make, and the homemade noodles that you made with it. I also miss the conversations we had, when I'd visit you. Anyway, I love and miss you sooo much. 💕💕💕
