“ My sister truly was the brightest light. It didn't matter what sort of bad day I might have had the worst bipolar episode I could call her and all was right with the world again because she really had a way of bringing out your best and accepting people. Being around her made you like yourself more, she had a very special gift I think that's why she made such a good nurse, she was like Christmas morning, the sun after a week of clouds and rain. It was so easy for her to love people, If I can be 10 percent of her beautiful spirit I will feel like a success. I hope she knows how thankful I am I had her for a sister. She was the only person I felt comfortable telling my faults to and she would just teach me how to now be so hard on myself. Each day I just find more reasons why I miss her. I hope she forgives me for not being as good a sister to her as she was to me because there just was never anyone more amazing. I thank her for teaching me that God is on my side. I will always be thankful. No one else could have influenced my spiritual life but my sister, my angel.

“ I remember when I had this Buick Skylark car and something malfunctioned on it and so I just got frustrated and sold it to this car dealer in Omaha for $250. When Sheryl found out she went down there and chewed them out telling them they took advantage of me and saying how do you sleep at night. She handed them the check back and I got the car back. Eventually I sold the car for $ 2000 something. She always stood up for me that way and this continued throughout my life in many situations. More than I can count. She was like my guardian angel. Such a beautiful person. Such a good sister to me. I still don't know how to get along without her. No one will ever be that good to me. Compare. I always love you sis until we meet again.

“ I just learned this sad news today. My heart is breaking for all the family. Sheryl was a sweet gentle soul and a good friend. Although I didn't get to see her much after Stull School closed, I will always remember her sweet smile and her kindness. Prayers for you all.
